EXPANSION OF THE TWIN FLAME HEART WOMB

To my beloved spirit family,

Oh, how far we’ve come in the understanding of the power of the Twin Flame Heart Womb. With each Now Moment of opening and surrender to the Will of Love, we will broaden our comprehension of our co-creative potential from within this primary field of Cause which exists outside of time and space.

As you find yourself one moment able to live as the Divine Heart and the next completely hypnotized by the illusion of duality, you probably hear your internal dialogue pointing a finger at you, claiming you’re a fraud; one who cannot walk his talk. It is but the weakening voice of the little mind.

Many have asked why they feel such love and have profound experiences while consciously in the heart womb, yet within minutes of removing their attention from it, they often engage in an argument or find themselves steeped in fear or frustration. I put this subject to the air crew and asked for some tools to help us all walk the talk more consistently. Their advice surprised even me.

Just as with laboratory experiments in which consistent signals elicit programmed and predictable behavior from an animal, (eg: the sound of a bell indicates it’s feeding time and the animal follows a specific and known pathway to obtain the desired food) we can begin to entrain the intelligence within our four lower bodies to respond in programmable and predictable ways to sign posts we create for ourselves.

With your work in the Heart Womb, you've been creating a bridge between levels of consciousness and remembering the co-creative power of the primal forces of creation. Yet, most have not yet entrained the four lower bodies to consistently respond to the Will of Love.

So, what are these signals or sign posts? – The answer: The events that consistently impede your heart from giving love. These are different for each of us. Maybe one of your sign posts will be impatience in rush hour traffic, or perhaps the fear that grips you when you hear the news, or the person who most offends your soul getting in your face about something. Use these hindrances to love as your sign posts --- and rather than allowing your heart to contract, command it to expand as the perfect conduit through which love can attune every precious electron of light back to its highest vibratory potential. Open your heart like a great funnel. Allow the living river of love from the Ongoing Moment of Creation to literally gush forth to wash over that sign post, silently confirming, “Only Love is Real.”

It is a simple shift in consciousness – one that takes an otherwise stuck in the muck experience and turns it into a magnificent opportunity to expand the Will of Love through you and as you. The love must move through your four lower bodies first before it follows its trajectory in the great circle of life, gathering similar energy and returning to you multiplied. Thus does this act of selflessness return as the ultimate gift to yourself to bless you in unfathomable ways.

Through these simple daily triggers, you begin to get your feet under you as you allow Love to breathe you, to beat your heart. Each time you consciously connect across this bridge into the real of love, your heart field becomes the open conduit for love to bathe every condition, person, place, and thing upon which you hold your attention. Instead of contraction, you expand. Instead of reinforcing separation, you claim oneness. Instead of exclusion, you live the law of inclusion.

The more sign posts you give yourself as triggers, the more often you remain in the field and the swifter you walk your talk. And, remember, my dear, beloved family, you are the means by which this world will shift. The surmounting difficulties that are expressing in the world of duality cannot be resolved through the same paradigm that created them. Violence cannot end violence. Hatred cannot heal hatred. Separation cannot heal separation. Until we take our focus from duality, we continue to give it power.

Our children are “off line” because we have not created the field for which they were programmed. They are waiting for the heart field. They will ultimately find their way, even if we do not create it, but it can take upwards of seven generations. If every time you create the heart field you ask to connect to the heart field of every other conscious being who is doing the same, we will EXPAND the field so quickly and powerfully around and through this planet, that the children can come “on line” in the twinkling of an eye.

Even if your first draw to the Twin Flame information came only as a result of longing for an intimate, loving relationship, you have come home to a knowing with which you resonate. And this is because of a service you so deeply wished to provide at a most opportune moment in the cosmic cycle. You are honored deeply and held in great reverence and awe by the Host of Light. You have been called because you have volunteered.

Like the infant, you’ve come from a state of immobilization, to crawling, to holding onto support, and now you’re finding you have the power to stand on your own feet. No matter how many times you stumble, listen to the voice of love that encourages you to stand right back up and try again, and again, and again, until you are the Sovereign Heart of God in Action! This living river of love in which you have your being and from which you draw your sustenance is the SOURCE of every conceivable form of abundance.

Only Love is Real!
